

Banks have sufficient information on record as to how to contact customers telephonically when NECESSARY in the course of business. My banks utilize the U.S. Mails and public media for promotional marketing. They can use these same methods to contact former customers. THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO NEED WHATEVER FOR TELEMARKETING; it is an affront to us as consumers who pay for telephone service to continue to make it an issue....by banking institutions or any other business.

.